

Release

A confused mind, too unsure to change and too scared to try,
Opened to a new world, no more “big lie”.

Hate once woven into him, mind body and every limb,
Trying to escape from those who manipulate.

Locked inside himself, not knowing of his own imprisonment,
Kept trapped their by solid bars, of sincere ignorance and fear
His life ran by confinement.

The way out is education, not the sort taught in school or college,
But the type found through experience and life knowledge.

This is the key,
to his minds release from this mentally infectious captivity.

“This trapped mind, has finally been set free from a hateful eternity”

